PROF. JÖRG OECHSSLER, Ph.D.

UNIVERSITÄT
HEIDELBERG
ZUKUNFT
SEIT 1386

A Post-Doc Position in Behavioral or Experimental Economics is available for 6 years at the research group of Prof. Joerg Oechssler, Department of Economics, University of Heidelberg, Germany.

We seek to fill the Post-Doc Position by September 1, 2025 or at the earliest possible convenience. The position is available for six years and includes a teaching obligation of at most 4 hours per week. Salaries are according to the German pay scale TV-L E13 and range from about 55.600 € to about 72.000 € per year, depending on personal qualification. Funds for travel, research support, and experiments are available.

The postdoctoral fellow will have the opportunity to do independent research in his/her respective fields but is expected to actively interact with other researchers of the Department of Economics. The successful candidate should hold a PhD in economics or a related field. German language skills are not a requirement. As an equal opportunity employer, the University of Heidelberg actively encourages applications from women. Preference will be given to disabled applicants with equal qualifications.

The department of economics has an experimental laboratory and an active group of researchers in experimental and behavioral economics, see <https://www.awilab.de/>

Applicants should send a letter of interest, their CV, a one-page research statement, and two research papers to the address below. Two recommendation letters should be sent directly by your references to the same address.
