

The Alfred-Weber-Institute for Economics at the Faculty of Economics and Social Sciences at Heidelberg University invites applications for a

Junior Professorship (W1), non tenure track, in “Macroeconomics” (f/m/d)

to be appointed as soon as possible, preferably in October 2025.

The appointment is limited to a maximum duration of six years. Provided that the general legal (German civil service law) and budgetary regulations are fulfilled, it is intended that the employment will have temporary civil service status.

Position description:

The junior professor is expected to carry out empirical and/or theoretical research in the field of Macroeconomics. The postholder will participate in the teaching program of the Alfred-Weber-Institute for Bachelor's and/or Master's degrees in economics, which are offered in German and English. Teaching in English is possible. The course load is relatively light, approximately one course per term. According to the applicable regulations for Juniorprofessors in compliance with the Teaching Obligations Ordinance (Lehrverpflichtungsverordnung) of Baden-Württemberg, the obligated teaching load is four hours (each 45 min) per week before, and six semester hours per week after the evaluation. The regulations concerning the evaluation can be accessed via the e-mail address below or through the Human Resources Division of Heidelberg University.

Requirements:

A Ph.D. in Economics or related fields and ideally publications in leading journals are a pre-requisite for a successful application. The professorship is a temporary qualification position. In accordance with Article 51 of the Higher Education Act (Landeshochschulgesetz) of the state Baden-Württemberg, candidates are required to have a completed university degree, an outstanding dissertation in a field relevant to the duties concerned and pedagogical aptitude in the field of macroeconomics research. For applicants who have held academic positions before or after their doctorate, the duration of pre- and post-doctoral employment together should not exceed six years.

Applications should include a CV listing all relevant publications and the names of two potential references, a job market paper, and teaching evaluations (where available). Complete applications should be sent to the Vice Dean of the Faculty of Economics and Social Sciences Prof. Dr. Kathia Serrano Velarde by e-mail: (jobs@wiso.uni-heidelberg.de).

The deadline for applications is 22 February 2025.

For informal inquiries on this position, please contact Prof. Dr. Zeno Enders (zeno.enders@awi.uni-heidelberg.de)

Heidelberg University stands for equal opportunities and diversity. Qualified female candidates are especially invited to apply. Persons with severe disabilities will be given preference if they are equally qualified. Information on job advertisements, the evaluation statute and the collection of personal data is available at <https://www.uni-heidelberg.de/en/job-market>